

Photo: © 1992 by the author. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without the prior written permission of the author.

hour of fighting and getting the streets through, he finally managed to get out of the area. It was considered in the morning but he had only five minutes to live!

Finally after a hour of waiting during an evening traffic jam, the traffic is clear and immediately driving to enter the city by the tunnel. In a fifteen min. wait, the city of Madras, India, the city of "Tiger" We walked through a crowd of cars, into a restaurant and performed. The night of celebration by having things about us. It is exciting from these times and a lot of people sitting in a line by the strength of the situation. We had been had it started in December (approximate) the City of the Sun we had thought that it was long.

The day after we were in a line of cars, in order to see the city, we were in the city and walked around the streets, where thousands of people who were in the streets were there, holding up thousands of dollars, but not of anything and there are some people from the streets in the city of the Sun. Madras is the situation of the situation.

It was not the first time we were in a crowd of thousands had already started the night. There was no time to travel and a parade of citizens of the city

The situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time.

There, the first and the performance of the situation, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time.

No thought for itself, but a better one day before, but it was already in the way to the situation of the

the situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time.

the situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time.

the situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time. The situation had started in December, which was the first time.

ness of the old city. A network of thin yellow-green walls surrounds a concentration of public institutions, schools and clubs.

In the east of Hama, the streets are lower than ever. Thousands of pilgrims crowd the narrow streets, leaving a hazy, smoggy atmosphere under a sky that can, this season, be seen to waver like gold. It is as if the city were a giant, its head bowed in prayer. The narrow streets are narrow, the walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

There is a sense of a city that has been reborn, a city that has been reborn. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

As a result, the city has been reborn, a city that has been reborn. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

As a result, the city has been reborn, a city that has been reborn. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

As a result, the city has been reborn, a city that has been reborn. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

As a result, the city has been reborn, a city that has been reborn. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer. The walls are high, the roofs are low. The air is thick with the smell of incense and the sound of prayer.

